Forthcoming Activities - Preparations for Technical Seminar 2003

Following the decisions taken on the occasion of the last meeting of the EALCJ hosted by our Irish colleagues in Dublin Castle, the Secretariat has been seeking views on the organisation of the Association's next technical seminar, which is due to take place in 2003.

To date, it has been agreed that the subject-matter for this next technical seminar should concern termination of employment at the initiative of the employer, and that a number of sub-themes should be addressed within the framework of this issue.

In relation to the precise timing and location of the 2003 technical seminar, final decisions will be taken following full discussion of the options at the forthcoming 2002 Executive Committee Meeting of the Association.
